THE CASE

A café door opens and the waiter hears the order of the day forming: two fathers and two sons have come in together, hungry.

Each of them orders one plate of food, at ₹10 a plate. The waiter — who can plainly see the whole party from his counter — brings exactly three plates, and the bill comes to ₹30.

Nobody complains. Nobody has been short-changed, no plate is shared, and no one in the party is missing. The count of fathers and sons was honest. So was the waiter.

THE QUESTION

How can two fathers and two sons be only three people?

THREE HINTS

Open them one at a time. Stop the moment you have it — the last hint nearly gives it away.

HINT 1
Count the people, not the titles. A title is a job a person can hold — sometimes two at once.

HINT 2
One man at that table is doing double duty in the family tree.

HINT 3
Three generations are sitting at the table: the oldest, the youngest — and the man in the middle, who faces both ways.

YOUR MOVE

How can two fathers and two sons be only three people?

Decide your answer now — say it out loud or write it in the comments — before you turn this page. No going back.

THE REVEAL

THE ANSWER

The three men are a grandfather, his son, and his grandson.

The grandfather is a father — the middle man's father. The middle man is a father too — the boy's father — and he is also a son: the grandfather's son. The boy is a son.

Count the titles: fathers = the grandfather and the middle man (two). Sons = the middle man and the boy (two). Count the people: three.

Three people, three plates, ₹30. The waiter's maths was perfect all along.

WHY IT WORKS

The riddle spends one quiet trick: it counts roles as if they were people. 'Father' and 'son' are relationships, not bodies — one body can hold both.

Once the middle generation is spotted, every number in the story falls into place with nothing left over. A clean riddle leaves no remainder; this one leaves none.

THE TRAP, NAMED

The listener pictures four chairs because four titles were announced. Titles were counted — people were not.

MAKE THE VIDEO

This book is a production pack. The route from page to posted video:

1 · OPEN THE BOOK
The story, the question and the reveal in this book are your script beats, in order.

2 · GIVE IT TO THE AGENT
Paste the case into your AI agent (run it on Google Antigravity) and let it plan the shots from the beats.

3 · CONNECT GOOGLE FLOW
The agent builds the scenes as short clips in Flow. Keep the question on screen until the final seconds — the reveal is the last beat, never the first.

4 · EDIT + POST
Post with the question as the caption's first line and pin a comment asking for answers BEFORE the reveal. The debate in the comments is the engine.

ABOUT THIS BOOK

RIDDLE VAULT is the OTT Titans series of one-riddle books: one case per book, a verified answer, and the production route to turn it into a video. Every answer in this series is solved and checked before the book is made — if the logic has a hole, the riddle does not ship.

OWNERSHIP

This book — its text, structure and design — is owned by OTT TITANS. Reading or downloading it grants you the right to enjoy it and to produce your own version of the riddle video on your own channels. It never transfers ownership of the book.

More cases are waiting in the Vault — and a new riddle video lands every day on the 1 Minute Detective channels.
